The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act

The SBA's New Jersey District Office will be conducting a series of Economic Recovery Forums to inform the small business community of new economic incentives to address the challenges facing small businesses and entrepreneurs across the country.

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act is a national effort to grow the U.S. economy by stimulating job creation, freeing credit markets, and investing in small business. The Act contains:

- tax incentives
- higher loan guarantees
- temporary reductions of loan fees
- new SBA programs
- enhancements to current SBA programs that will help to unlock credit markets

By attending a forum, you will learn about SBA's plans for implementing the provisions of the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act and how they will help your business, organization or community. You will also have the opportunity to get answers to your questions and network with fellow members of the small business community. So if you are an elected official, a representative of a state, county or local government, a representative of a business organization or association, a small business owner or an aspiring entrepreneur, you should attend one of these forums
